AZALEA

The letters and numbers preceding the variety name denote hardiness as given by Koster Nurseries, Bridgeton, N. J., who are large growers of Azaleas, and these ratings are borne out by experience of local growers. The ratings are based upon minimum temperatures which varieties may be expected to stand with no appreciable damage to leaf, stem or bud of established mature plants. They are as follows:

- H-1—(Hardy to 25° F. below zero.)      H-3—(Hardy to 5° F. below zero.)
H-2—(Hardy to 15° F. below zero.)      H-4—(Hardy to 5° F. above zero.)
First year plants should be rated one rating lower.

RHODODENDRONS

This has been an excellent growing season for Rhododendrons, and apparently we will have more well budded plants to offer than ever before. The quality likewise should be the best we have ever had. Last year's price schedule is being maintained, but it is our intention to supply liberal grades and top quality plants to every customer. Most varieties are cutting grown.

Letters and numbers preceding variety names indicate relative hardiness. (H-1—hardest through H-5—most tender; H-1—probably hardy as far north as Southern New England and Southern New York; H-5 only recommended for warmer climates and Western Oregon and Washington. We consider all of the Rhododendrons listed hardy in California with the exception of the northern inland portion of the State.

PORTLAND ROSES

The roses we offer are all grown near Portland in good, sandy, loam soil, without irrigation, thus securing a particularly fine root system and firm, well-ripened wood. The stock is usually ready for shipment by December 1. A favorable growing season seems to indicate excellent quality for this year. The percentage of No. 1 Roses will be high.

Neatness

Among my good habits I take special pride in one, namely the impulse not to contribute to litter.

I deposit ashes and butts of cigarettes in ash trays. When a book of matches is empty I drop the cover in a wastebasket. If I tear the cellophane from a pack of cigarettes or a package of gum, I look for a place to put it and I'll put it in my pocket before I'll drop it on the sidewalk or the floor of an office or hotel lobby. In hotels I put used towels in the basket provided for them. When finished with the water, I pull the plugs in wash basins and bathtubs. Lacking a special cloth, I don't use linen towels to wipe my shoes; I use yesterday's socks.

Of nasty habits, I think the disposition to litter streets, public conveyance, hotels, banquet halls, and houses is the most obnoxious.

By WILLIAM FEATHER.

"William Feather is undoubtedly right. Neatness is necessary, especially in the nursery business."
